It's in our veins

Welcome to Margraf

Lovers of the raw material, expert craftsmen, tireless innovators.

We work every day to transform marble into an emotion to be experienced. Our unwavering commitment to innovation and perceptive appreciation of architecture and design are two constants that have made us what we are today.

Our Story

What we do today started a long time ago. It all started in Chiampo - Italy, in 1906. A village in the province of Vicenza, in the Venetian Pre-Alps. A Company, Industria Marmi Vicentini, began extracting marble blocks from local quarries and processing them at its nearby factory. The rest is history: constant growth from 1935, under Gaetano Marzotto, the birth of Margraf Spa in the 1980s, the merger into the Linea Marmo Group in 1999.

Our Mission

We have exported Italian savoir faire all over the world, constructed cultural symbols and sites on all five continents with our marble. An achievement that fills us with pride and motivates us to continue doing the thing we love most: transforming nature into architecture, marble into an emotion to be experienced.

Projects & Products

Blocks

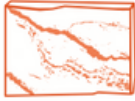

The hallmarks of Margraf are evident from the very first step in the production chain: they can clearly be seen in the care we take in extracting our blocks and in the intrinsic quality of the material. What remains to be discovered, however, is the immense variety of marble and natural stone blocks, both Italian and exotic, deriving from our deposits and quarry sites around the world.
